TAX REGULATIONS PERPLEXING.
Revenue Stamps Not Received Up to Monday—Contradictory Instructions.

Although the new Federal tax goes into effect today, there is considerable uncertainty as to its provisions among the business men of the city, and as no place has been designated where the stamps may be purchased, save a communication stating that they are for sale at the office of the collector of internal revenue in Hartford, received by Mayor Dunn from Deputy Collector Farrell of New London, it is likely that much confusion will be caused locally by the enforcement of the provisions of the law.

Very few people are familiar with the law, and in many cases there is considerable uncertainty as to how it applies. For instance, the insurance agents are in receipt of circulars stating that mutual companies are not subject to a tax, yet agents of several such companies have received notices from the collector to affix stamps to the policies issued by them. Not all these in this city who were liable to pay taxes under the new law before the last of November, for the year ending June 30, 1915, had done so, and a considerable number of notices were received from Mr. Farrell Monday, advising payment or an additional 50 percent would have to be added to the amount due the government. This applies to dealers in cigars and tobacco, and proprietors of pool rooms and bowling alleys, theatres, saloons, grocers, hotels, and the like.

RESUMING WORK TODAY.

Quindin-Windham Mills to Start Up.
Difficulties Being Adjusted.
After a period of nine or ten weeks inactivity which affected close to five hundred operatives, the Quindin-Windham mills will open again this morning, the difficulties of the corporation having been adjusted without the need of a permanent receiver. This one fact, announced last week, did more to give a Thanksgiving feeling in the minds of many than anything else of recent occurrence. Although the mills do not go upon full time immediately, their resumption of work will mean a great deal to many families in the town.

Project of Charity Board to be Discussed.

The dull times this fall, and the large amount of charitable work which it has been necessary under present conditions to do, to say nothing of the calls upon the town authorities for help have led many people to think that the time was ripe for a systematic charities board, or something of that nature, so that all who were serving could be reached and efforts in that direction need not be duplicated. The Board of Trade at its meeting tonight will discuss this proposition and it is hoped that every organization doing work of a charitable nature in town will be represented at the meeting, that the problem may be talked over from every angle, and the best means of reaching the end in view, if it be found acceptable to all, may be arrived at.

AMENDED TRAFFIC RULES.

Vehicles May Turn Around on Streets.
Hitherto Forbidden Territory

Four members of the board of aldermen constituting a majority of the board held a meeting Monday night at which Mayor Dunn and Corporation Counsel Kelley were present to consider the objection made by the merchants of the city who attended the last meeting of the aldermen and voiced their opposition to the new traffic rules now in effect for a week. That part of the ordinance which forbade vehicles from turning around on certain sections of Main, Union, Church and North streets, and which forbade traffic rules in all other respects unchanged. This will dispose of one serious objection to the new rules but leaves matters where they were in regard to backing vehicles across the sidewalks. The aldermen felt that public opinion was behind them in requiring the sidewalks to be kept clear of obstructed and made no change in regard to that.

JEWETT CITY

Borough Dog Gets Free Ride to Norwich and Return—Surprise Party—Death of Mrs. Albert D. Cray.

Some person in Jewett City who owns an inquisitive dog would have been minus a dog Monday, had it not been for the consideration shown the animal by Conductor Gleason. When the 3.09 trolley stopped at the station, two dogs ran into the car, and the conductor immediately assisted one of them to alight. But the other was not visible until the car started. Then the expression on the two faces was amusing. The dog immediately retired under a seat, with the air of wondering where on earth he was headed for. A lady in a nearby seat took pity on the mortified animal, and invited him to the seat with her. He immediately accepted the invitation, and for a time seemed to be merrily meditating on perversity of things in general. The dog when snuffed, did not seem familiar, and he had no money with which to pay his fare. He was invited to view the scenery from the window, which he proceeded to do, but was apparently very uneasy in his mind at the unfamiliar landscape. He received considerable valuable advice to waken in distance most attentively, and evidently would profit by it, if he ever saw home and mother again. At every stop he evidenced desire to leave the car precipitately, but was restrained by the caution that he was having a free ride and ought to appreciate it. When the terminal was reached and people left the car, he whined piteously, probably with visions of muzzles and the police station. While the lady held the animal, the conductor produced a rope from the trolley station, and proceeded to secure him to a convenient young man, preparatory to the return trip. He was given in charge of the dog by the conductor at the car barn to be safely returned to his native heath, a sadder but wiser dog. The number on his collar was $0.35, the last two weeks of his life, being an applicable combination in this particular case.

A Real Surprise Party.

Forty young friends of William Emerson, son of Principal W. E. Emerson, gave him a surprise party Friday night. It was a genuine surprise, for it took considerable persuasion to get him to leave his home and go to the party. The young people enjoyed thoroughly the games and refreshments. They gave the young man a substantial sum of money as a gift.

PLAINFIELD

Train Loses Wheel From Car, Stopping Traffic—Congregational Pastor Expresses His Opinion of Careless Christians.

Near Packer Saturday morning a wheel came off the 8 o'clock train, stopping traffic for the remainder of the day. Passengers from both ways had to be transferred while the wrecking crew and section men were getting things going again. It is reported that Section Foreman J. Sullivan is improving, and unless some new complication arises in the week he is expected to come home from St. Joseph's hospital in Providence, in about a week. Miss Ella Barber went to Ekono on Saturday afternoon to spend the night with her grandmother, Mrs. B. F. Colburn, returning home Sunday night. Mrs. J. P. Montgomery of Packer is improving. At Congregational Church. At the Congregational church Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Lakin spoke to a large congregation on "The True Christian." There is a vast difference between Christianity and Churchianity; the church members who choose the outside or ball game instead of the church on the Sabbath "need another dip," many men pray and sing like angels and are devils at heart; we are commanded to "Judge not," but are also told "By their fruit ye shall know them," and if we see a tree loaded with apples it is a good sign it is an apple tree, and the same is equally plain in some lives. Be sure you are above temptation before you mix freely with the world to reform other men. In the evening the Christian Endeavor meeting was a missionary service led by Mrs. Walter Kingsley. At 7 o'clock Rev. Mr. Lakin compared the natural man to the wild grape and the Christian to the cultivated grape. Christ is the vine and his people are the branches. Mr. Lakin spoke of his joy at the word of encouragement from a lady who told him this morning of a visitor who attended an evening service at a few weeks ago and was led to decide for Christ. On Sunday, November 29, she was baptized and taken into one of the Baptist churches in Providence, R. I. The Woman's Missionary Reading circle will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Lyon. The Ladies Aid society is to meet with Mrs. B. H. Briggs Wednesday afternoon. A. S. Spalding and family of Norwich spent Thanksgiving at their summer home here. Patient is Home Sick. Louis Goyette visited his little daughter in Backus hospital, Norwich, Thursday and did not find her as well as he had hoped from his former visit. The little girl is very homesick and mourns for her mother. Suffers a Shock. Mrs. Fred Graves of Black Hill has been suffering from pneumonia for over a week and a few days ago had a shock which has left one side perfectly helpless. A council of doctors gave her little hope for her recovery. She is now in the hands of two nurses. Her little daughter is also very ill with pneumonia. But Sunday was reported more comfortable. The Earnest Workers held a sewing bee with Miss Mary Kingsley on Saturday afternoon.
